By adding humor to mystery in "When a Man Marries" she has made a unique place for herself in American

In this story the element of humor runs over and becomes fairly side-splitting. It was from "When a Man Marries" that the play, "Seven Days," was made, and it proved the biggest farce hit that has struck Broadway in twenty years. Readers of The Washington Herald will find in Mrs. Rinehart's charming tale the most pleasing newspaper di version they have eyer had. It will be printed from day to day, beginning on June 15, and no lover of good fiction can afford to miss a chapter of it.

Indeed, once the first chapter is read, the reader will find it impossible to do without the succeeding chapters. It holds the interest from start to Remember the date of the first installment-Wednesday, June 15.

Progress of New Home or Columbia Country Club.

MEMBERS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

At the Meeting Last Night Encouraging and Satisfactory Reports Were Made-Five Hundred Members Already Enrolled-Presentation to Mr. Francis a Feature.

The members of the Columbia Country Club gathered at the New Willard last night in goodly numbers. A smoker had been planned by the board of governers in order to afford an opportunity to present to the members a report on the progress which has been made in the onstruction of the clubhouse, and in the development of the golf links on the club property situated in Connecticut avenue extended, just beyond Chevy hase. The large attendance, despite the nclemency of the weather, indicated the interest in the organization, and the enthusiasm manifested as the reports were submitted was most gratifying.

Mr. Henry L. West, the president of the club, in his opening remarks, stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of bringing the members together, and especially to demonstrate that the promises which had been made when the club held its last meeting had been redeemed and that the clubhouse was now a reality. Photographs were shown of the new building so far advanced that the rafters of the roof were in position, while the panoramic view of the course showed that the grounds wer assuming the characteristics of a golf course. These protographs aroused the highest degree of enthusiasm, as few of the members had any idea of the work which had been accomplished. Reports of Work Accomplished.

Mr. Joseph M. Stoddard, chairman of the building committee, stated that even greater progress would have been made but for the inciement weather, while Mr. E. B. Eynon, fr., chairman of the green committee, reported that the grounds were in such an advanced condition that they would be ready for play, if need be. within a few weeks. Mr. Benjamin Woodruff, secretary of the club and chairman of the finance committee, reported that the club membership had reached the 500 mark, lacking only 100 of the limit which had been determined upon. He said that the interest in the membership was constantly growing, and that it would not be long before there would be a waiting list. He also reported that the finances of the organization were in excellent condition, and added that when the additional hundred members were secured every obligation marks were received with great applause, and many members of the club an-

Presentation to Mr. Francis. During the evening Mr. Thomas Francis, who has served during many tournaments as clerk of the course, and who is very popular with the members, was presented with a beautiful coffee set of French china cups in silver holders, with silver urn and a silver tray. The presentation speech was most happily made by Mr. John E. Wilkie, the former president of the Columbia Golf Club, who spoke in high terms of the work of Mr. Francis in connection with the many tournaments of the club. Mr. Francis responded feelingly, and the incident was greatly enjoyed by the large attendance. The evening was brought to a pleasant conclusion by songs by Messrs. Nolan and Thompson and others, with Mr. John Porter Lawrence at the piano, and with a happy and eloquent address by ex-Senator John M. Thurston, who related his own golf experiences and elo quently portrayed the good comradeship of the game. Altogether the occasion

WHITE HOUSE LAWN PLAYS.

New Arrangement to Add Immeasurably to Stage Settings. Following an inspection of the grounds yesterday morning and a consultation between Manager Goodsart, of the Coburn Players, and F. F. Glidden, of the office of the superintendent of public parks. Secretary West, of the Washington Playgrounds Association, announced last night that the performances of "As You "Twelfth Night" will Like It" and "Twelfth Night" will be given this year on the southeast knoll of White House lawn instead of on the southwest knoll, as last year, when a successful al fresco entertainment was presented. The change has been made because it will enable the audience at the Friday matinee to see the perform ance without facing the sun. matinee is to be given at 4:30, the sun would still be more than two hours high, which would throw the glare into the faces of most of the spectators. By arranging the stage on the southeast knoll this difficulty is entirely overcome The stage, which is to be 60x30 feet, will be constructed around four trees which are growing on the knoll. This arrangement will add immeasurably to the effectiveness of the setting, as the two firs, a hemlock, and a lowspreading magnolia will seem to spring up at the very feet of the actors, and yet the stage will be so arranged that the shrubbery will not obscure the view from any persons in the audience. The object in having an elevated stage is to enable every person on the grounds to command a full view of the players. With a stage as now planned, all the beauties of the outdoor performance are combined with the conveniences of seats on an incline.
